

Re C (A Child)

[2018] EWHC 3332 (Fam)

06/11/2018

Barristers

Fiona Munro

Court

Family Division

Practice Areas

Public Children Law

The High Court considered the appropriate test to be applied when determining whether a local authority should inform a teenage boy that he was a father, where the child had been relinquished for adoption at birth and the teenage mother opposed information being given to him. Cases involving parents who were themselves children were not in a special category, although their youth was a relevant factor. Considerable regard had to be given to the mother's wishes.

To read the full judgment, please click here