

23rd October 2019

Chales Hale QC writes for The Times. In his article he discusses, the much needed law reform required across family law to catch up with societal change.