Profile

Andrew is widely recognised for his expertise in cases concerning children. His practice focuses on parental disputes about arrangements for children after separation, international children law including child abduction, and applications to relocate children to another country. He is also in demand in cases where the local authority is involved, including those with complex medical evidence and allegations of sexual abuse. Andrew was awarded the 'Family Law Junior Barrister of the Year Award' in November 2021 at the annual LexisNexis Family Law Awards.

From 2016-2020 Andrew was led by Alex Verdan QC and Cleo Perry QC representing a core participant in the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (Children in the care of Lambeth Council investigation). He was also led by Cleo Perry QC representing a core participant in a second investigation, also as part of the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (Child Sexual Exploitation by Organised Networks investigation).

Andrew brings a calm but knowledgeable approach to his work with parents engaged in disputes about their children. Clients find him approachable and empathetic. He has represented clients in all levels of court, and adopts a courteous but no-nonsense approach to advocacy. His case load is both domestic and international, and he is experienced in dealing with cross-jurisdictional issues, particularly in international adoption and international surrogacy cases. Andrew is also instructed in cases concerning vulnerable adults in forced marriage, stranded spouses and FGM cases.

In addition to his practice focusing on arrangements for children, Andrew has developed a specialist practice advising and representing clients on the law relating to the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 2008 (surrogacy, parental order applications and fertility treatment) and disputes arising from LGBTQ+ parenting arrangements. Andrew appeared as junior counsel on behalf of the AIRE Centre in the Court of Appeal in R (Alfred McConnell) -v- The Registrar General for England and Wales and others [2020] EWCA Civ 559. The appellant sought to appeal a decision of the President of the Family Division in judicial review proceedings concerning the Registrar General's decision to register a trans man who had given birth to a child as the child's mother. He also appeared as junior counsel on behalf of University College London NHS Foundation Trust in AB v CD [2021] EWHC 741 (Fam) which concerned whether parents could lawfully consent to the prescription and administration of puberty blockers. In 2014, after being awarded a Pegasus Scholarship, he worked in Los Angeles in a law firm specialising in surrogacy and fertility law and since his return has been acknowledged as one of the leading barristers in this area, writing surrogacy articles for Family Law Week. Andrew has experience representing, intended parents and surrogates in applications for parental orders as well as parents and fertility clinics in declaration of parentage cases. Andrew's book 'A practical guide to the law in relation to surrogacy' was published in November 2020. In 2021 he provided an expert opinion in a case before the Eastern Caribbean Supreme Court concerning international surrogacy arrangements (O Trustee et al v Q et al)

In May 2021 Andrew was appointed a Governing Board Member of the Nuffield Family Justice

Observatory.

Andrew has experience representing parties in cases concerning deprivation of liberty and best interests in the Court of Protection.

Andrew is also the author of the domestic adoption chapter of Rayden and Jackson on Relationship Breakdown, Finances and Children (2016 edition).

Outside work, Andrew enjoys running and cycling.
